PLAN OF ACTION IS MADE PUBLIC

DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY IN THE HOUSE ANNOUNCES NEW PROGRAM.

REPUBLICAN SENATE WILL BE SPEEDILY GIVEN IMPORTANT MEASURES.

RECIPROCITY IS PUT FOURTH

Democrats Place Popular Election of Senators First and Then Publicity of Contributions and Statehood.

Washington, April 10.—Legislative plans of the Democratic majority of the house, made known from a reliable source, indicate that the Republican senate speedily will be given important measures for action.

The definite outline, subject to further caucus ratification, lists as follows the order of legislation to be pushed forward by the ways and means committee as soon as the house organization is completed:

Popular election of United States senators.

Publicity before elections of campaign contributions.

Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico.

Canadian reciprocity.

Revision of schedule K—the wool schedule—of the Payne-Aldrich bill.

Revision of the cotton schedule.

Beyond this the present organization does not extend, other tariff matters and general subjects being left for further consideration, dependent a great deal upon time.

It also practically has been decided that the Canadian reciprocity bill to be brought forward by Chairman Underwood will be almost an exact duplicate of the McCall bill. It will carry no tariff rider.

Leading Democrats when asked what they would do if the senate immediately passed the Canadian reciprocity bill and then indicated its readiness to adjourn declared that the house would not adjourn. The Democratic leaders expressed confidence that the president would not exercise his authority to adjourn the extraordinary session should a dispute arise between the two houses of congress over adjournment.

GRAND RESULTS EXPECTED FROM JUBILEE MEETINGS

Those who enjoyed the Jubilee Missionary meeting a few weeks ago will be interested in knowing that the climax was reached in New York City last week when eight thousand women gave themselves heartily to a three days celebration. Tuesday evening the meeting was held in the Metropolitan opera house and the music was conducted by Dr. Frank Damrosch. Wednesday was given to a series of meetings to bring out the new features in Missions. The hotel men were surprised when they were asked to furnish a smart luncheon, and found their corridors crowded with six thousand beautifully gowned, spring hatted, smiling Christian women.

This is the largest women's banquet in all history. The last evening was given to a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall which was filled to overflowing, at this meeting the report was given of the gifts over and above the regular offerings of the Woman's Missionary societies and had reached $870,456.90. It is expected the million dollar aim will be realized before the close of the year. The results of this series of Jubilee meetings will no doubt be very far reaching.

SAY CHURCHES SHOULD BE MADE MORE INVITING

Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. of this city, Mrs. Delia Lutz of Cooperstown, New York, gave an address on "The Home, the Church, and the School." Mrs. Lutz was introduced to the very large audience which had gathered in the Presbyterian church by Rev. C. M. Creighton.

The speaker said that there were four especially critical periods in a mother's life: when she cut her baby's curls, his first day at school, when he got his first girl, and when he was married. Through all the child's life the mother's aim should be to keep close to her boy. If she were always sympathetic as regarded his childish troubles, he would bring to her his greater ones as he grew older. If his childish attempts at producing a drawing at school, for example, were taken with serious appreciation, the bond between them would thereby be strengthened. A mother who maintained such an interest as this in her boy need fear no period of wild oats sowing. That period need not be regarded in the least as inevitable.

Mrs. Lutz contrasted the dark, closed appearance the churches in large cities present during the week-days with the bright inviting aspect of saloons. She thought it a pity that the churches were not equally prepared to welcome the strange boy in the city.

The point most strongly urged by Mrs. Lutz was that the home should engage the mother's attention most of all and before all. Children should not be confided to servants for long stretches of time. Mothers should visit the schools and acquaint herself with the conditions obtaining there. Church work should be neglected rather than any duty pertaining to home and children and husband.

Rockefeller Pastor Preaches Farewell

New York, April 10.—In bidding goodbye to his congregation at the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked found occasion to give his view on orthodoxy, and again outlined his plan for a great unsectarian church.

"Denominations are nothing to me," he said, "but my church is. It seems to me that every Baptist paper that I see takes offense at my stand that 'all may be one.' If they represent the spirit of American Baptists I am not an American Baptist. I am an English free churchman, but I am in harmony with the American spirit.

"For more than sixteen years I ministered to such a church," continued the preacher, referring to Pembroke chapel in Liverpool, where immersion is not required for membership, "and you knew it when you invited me here and if you didn't it was your own fault, for these things were not done in a corner."

So many wanted to hear Dr. Aked's farewell sermon that standing room was at a premium for the morning service. A placard was posted on the lecture room doors asking seat-holders to use that entrance and the crowd, which straggled out three deep for half a block on West Forty-Sixth street, waited until the first hymn was announced and then ushers placed as many as they could in unoccupied pews. The rest stood up along the walls of the church and in the rear of the gallery.

REV. CHAS. F. AKED

Dr. Aked leaves New York today in a private car furnished by Robert Scott Lovett, head of the Union Pacific lines and a trustee of the church. On Easter Sunday he will preach his first sermon as pastor of the First Congregational church in San Francisco.

SENSATIONAL DIVORCE CASE IN THE COURT FOR THIRD TIME

Ann Arbor, April 10.—The third of a series of bills for divorce started by Mrs. Minnie Root against her husband, Frank Root, was filed Saturday night. The first of such cases being the bill filed in 1906 and discontinued by her a few months later. The second, the now famous case, in which Mrs. Root filed a bill for divorce from her husband Feb., 1910, after she had left him and started a rival music store and Mr. Root had asked the court to issue an injunction restraining her from doing business. She had answered the injunction with a cross bill asking for a divorce. This is the case in which the ten commandments became famous in Ann Arbor. This case was decided in her favor in the Washtenaw courts and she was given an absolute divorce and $1,000 alimony. This decision Mr. Root carried to the supreme court and there it was revised and again Mrs. Root found herself a married woman. Further than that under an old common law of Michigan Mrs. Root found she could not engage in a rival business to that of her husband while she was still his wife.

But Mrs. Root does not intend to be Mr. Root's wife so she has again filed a bill for divorce. This time claiming cruelty and persecution. There are many sensational features alleged in the bill, chief among them being a series of letters which Mr. Root is alleged to have written his wife, his wife's relatives and certain friends since she left him in Feb., 1909. In these letters Mrs. Root in the bill sets forth that her husband has wrongfully, willfully and maliciously accused her, among other things, of being a deliberate liar and other things which she claims she is not. Mrs. Root alleges that since separation from her husband in February, 1909, she has always conducted herself in a ladylike manner although Mr. Root is said to have accused her of "walking the streets trying to make a hit with students." In one of his letters the following endearing sentences are charged, "D— your very soul," "Let me say in conclusion that I shall wipe out this thing if I spend my life doing it."

Mrs. Root also alleges that her husband has written to wholesale music dealers and told them that "a sporting man" was backing her in her music store. Mrs. Root says she is afraid her husband will do her bodily harm and she is also afraid that he may dispose of his property as he has threatened. She claims that she is entitled to alimony of one-third of his personal property which he claims amounts to $16,000.

DATES SET FOR NORMAL MINSTRELS

The Normal College Minstrel Show which has been in progress of development for some time past has at last been brought into such a condition that a definite date for its presentation has been decided upon. This year's show will be held May 4th and 5th Thursday and Friday evenings, and will be of such a character as to merit the usual co-operation and patronage of the citizens of Ypsilanti.

Wm. F. Reyer of the Normal Conservatory, because of his unusual abilities along lines musical, has been chosen as musical director and is fast rounding an enthusiastic and capable chorus into form well nigh approaching the professional. His efforts will speak for itself, as it has in time past.

This year's end-men will be, besides Mr. Reyer, Messrs. Jennings, Whitmire, Parsons, D'Ooge and Becker, several of whom contributed their services in a manner more than satisfactory at last year's entertainment.

The minstrels are being managed by Joseph L. Fisk, who is being ably assisted by George W. Frasier, advertising agent; Ross H. Smith, treasurer; Phil Hall, and others, all of whom are working toward a common end.

An entirely new production with some startling novelties and surprises is promised.

Definite notices will appear in this paper and elsewhere from time to time regarding it and the good people of the city may rest assured that everything will be done to give an enjoyable evening at a popular price. The seat sale will be announced shortly. Remember the dates, May 4th and 5th, and be with us on one, or both, of those evenings.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE AT M. E. CHURCH SUNDAY MORNING

An impressive and pleasing spectacle was the reception of members into the Methodist church yesterday morning. A class numbering nearly seventy have been in training since the first of the year and fifty-five of this number presented themselves yesterday and took the vows which made them members in full and regular standing in the Methodist Episcopal church.

Of this number the pastor baptized thirty-six. He was assisted in the services by District Superintendent Dawe of Ann Arbor and also by the retired ministers of the congregation and Mrs. William Deubel who has been active in organizing and caring for the class was invited forward and stood with them.

The total enrolled membership is now 708. One hundred and twenty-five have been enrolled by letter and received from the list of probationers since the beginning of the present year. This is considered a very creditable growth in number.

Dr. William Dawe addressed the congregation briefly on the subject of the place of children in the church and emphasized the fundamental importance of bringing them into the care and nurture of the church at an early period in their lives.

Bryan Is Disappointed By Election Results

Washington, April 10.—In an interview William J. Bryan, whose followers in the senate were routed in the Democratic caucus Friday by the election of Senator Thomas S. Martin of Virginia as minority leader, voiced his disappointment over the result:

"I regard the election of Mr. Martin as minority leader as unfortunate for the party," said Bryan. "He is the Aldrich of the Democratic party in the senate and represents the ractionary element. Only two senators on the Democratic side voted with Aldrich more frequently than he did and one of those is no longer here.

"The line, however, has been drawn and we make a much better showing this year than two years ago. We have seventeen progressives now and they include nearly all the new Democratic senators. Unless the progressives are less earnest than the progressive Republicans a number of progressive Democrats wil be substituted for Martin and his followers two years hence.

"I am glad to find Senator Lea a leader among the progressives. There has been neither variableness nor shadow of turning in his course. The rule of seniority was invoked in behalf of Martin, but it will not stand examination. That rule may do in the army. In representative government the man who is still in the senate because the people have not had a recent opportunity to put him out ought not to speak with more authority than the man who comes fresh from the people."

Honick said he punished Kane because the officials had persisted in leaving religious literature in his cell.

MANY CROPS ARE THREATENED BY RIVER FLOODS

Petersburg, Ind., April 10.—The heavy rains of the past few days have caused the east and west forks of White river to rise rapidly, and the main river left its banks and began flooding the bottoms. Farmers up and down the river fear a repetition of last fall's flood. Practically no corn land has been broken in the bottoms, and the wheat planted in the bottoms will be a total loss.

Patoka river, eight miles south of here, is out of its banks. Much corn was left in the bottoms last fall, and if the river continues to rise efforts will be made to have it removed to the hills, together with live stock.

GET THE SPIRIT DO YOUR DUTY, SAYS REV. BEACH

Rev. Arthur G. Beach preached an interesting sermon at the Congregational church Sunday morning on the subject, "The Worth of Unconscious Goodness." He said:

"One of the finest things in the New Testament is the genuine surprise of that group of men whom Jesus describes in his parable as asking, 'When saw we thee ahungered and fed thee or athirst and gave thee drink or in prison and visited thee or naked and clothed thee?'

"The fine thing about these men is that they did not think of themselves as doing anything at all noteworthy. They had visited sick people or talked with prisoners or rescued people in danger in the same matter of fact way in which they ate or drank or went to the synagogue. It was all part of the day's work. They thought this was just what anybody would do. This is always the case with a man who is all the time doing his duty. If a man does a good thing only once in a while he must talk about it and expect to be praised for it, like the man who comes to prayer meeting once a year and then talks about the episode the rest of the year. No man can ever expect to have the experience of being surprised by the praise of his fellow men or of God unless good deeds are as familiar to him as the sun and the rain.

"Another interesting thing about the surprise of these men in the parable is that they had not been doing these good things to anybody because they thought he was somebody in particular. They had not selected a particular prisoner to be kind to as one might select today John R. Walsh and Charles Morse on account of their wealth and connections. But they had worked on the broad basis of humanity and common need. Any man who was sick or any man who was in trouble or afflicted in any way received their help. The man who does his good deeds in any less broad and human way spoils his good deeds at the very start. He has caught only the most distant glimmer of the Christian light. And merely from the standpoint of self-interest he makes himself liable to the disagreeable surprise of finding he has neglected the wrong man and he shuts himself out of the chance of being agreeably surprised by finding he has unwittingly done a kindness to one whom he would gladly have gone miles to help. The only sure way and the only genuinely Christian way is to have the unvarying habit of decency and honesty and goodwill. The Christian man is no respecter of persons. He is always willing to do any good deed 'unto the least of these my brethren.'

"A man's religion ought to make him do good deeds of course. But his religion ought to be so inwrought into the very texture of his mind that he will do the deeds without ever thinking of his religion in connection with them. Cardinal Manning used to say, 'I love men because Jesus loved them.' But one ought to be able to love men without having to remind himself that Jesus loved them. A Boy Scout, when he belongs to the Tenderfoot Class, will say to himself, 'A Scout smiles and looks pleasant,' and then will proceed to produce a smile. But after he has become a First-class Scout he will smile and look pleasant without mentioning or thinking of the Scout law. A first-class Christian man will live a good life in the same way without ever speaking or thinking of what he is doing as being his duty as a Christian. The parable is a wonderful revelation in this respect of the broad way of looking at things that was characteristic of Jesus.

"It does not follow, however, that the best way to make our virtue unostentatious and without priggishness or conceit is to avoid the name of Christians or to remain outside the church. Men sometimes draw that conclusion. And there are of course a great many people outside the churches and not calling themselves Christians who belong to this group to whom Jesus gave this experience of complete surprise by his unexpected praise of them. Yet it has been my experience that those who remain on the outside and live a life of good deeds are far more apt to be conceited about their goodness. They cannot forget the fact that they did it without the help of the church. The irregulars are quite likely to be most self-conscious in their virtue. It is the late comers at the feast, or those who have come without the wedding garment who are most awkwardly self-conscious and who cannot forget the effort they made to get there at all.

"But the truth remains, nevertheless, that it is not the use of the Christian name that the Master cares for, but the deeds and the spirit of friendliness. What we become Christians for and what the church exists for, is to stimulate in us and in all

The city has the right under Article 8, Section 23, new constitution, to acquire the gas plant.

It reads as follows: "Subject to the provisions of this constitution, any city or village may acquire, own and operate, either within or without its corporate limits, public utilities for supplying water, light, heat, power and transportation to the municipality and the inhabitants thereof; and may also sell and deliver water, heat, power and light without its corporate limits to an amount not to exceed twenty-five per cent of that furnished by it within the corporate limits; and may operate transportation lines without the municipality within such limits as may be prescribed by law: Provided, That the right to own or operate transportation facilities shall not extend to any city of village of less than twenty-five thousand inhabitants."

A saving to every citizen of fully fifty cents a thousand for thirty years, only with the probability of doubling our population in that time with permanently automatic regulator of reasonable electric light and power rates, suggests sufficient reason for the city owning the gas plant.

FINGER PRINTS AND CRIME

Incident Which Proved Correctness of Bertillon's System for Discovering Criminals.

Attempts to throw doubt on the system of M. Bertillon for discovering criminals by means of finger prints should be discredited by the actual capture of a man accused in the first instance of stealing a cow, and whose finger prints, it was revealed, tended to prove that he was guilty of a murder committed at Champigny 11 months ago. An old lady was put to death in her villa at that place last November, and the crime has always been steeped in a certain mystery, as no clue to the culprit could be found. Some weeks ago the gendarmes at a neighboring place arrested a man on the charge of having stolen a cow. The prisoner was photographed, as usual, at the Paris anthropometric department established by M. Bertillon, and then it was noticed that the photograph of the imprint of his fingers corresponded to the finger prints left on some bottles and glasses which had been found in the villa at Campigny. The man vehemently denied that he had a hand in the crime. The police meanwhile prosecuted their inquiry, and another strange fact was brought to light. When arrested the prisoner had in his possession certain papers of identification. The police allege to discover that these papers are not his at all, but are in the name of another man, who they suspect was also murdered. The prisoner in hand was called up before an examining magistrate, and is now accused of a double murder, and of having masqueraded in the name of one of his victims—and all this because his finger prints resemble those on the neck of a bottle found in a murdered woman's home.—Paris Correspondent London Telegraph.

MILLIONAIRES MUST UNITE

Humorist Calls on Them to Stand Together Against the Arrogance of the Laboring Classes.

Never has the arrogance of the laboring classes stood out so painfully as at present. The garmentmakers have struck, our brass polishers have struck, machinists and taxicabbies have struck, and now the poison has infected even the messenger boys.

Fellow-millionaires: United we stand, divided we fall. Let us now make a solemn covenant together. Let us, the masters, the employers of labor, strike. Let us discharge from our employ every laboring man on the pay roll, from the second hairdresser to the youngest helper in the shops. Man and boy, woman and child, let them be cast out. Let us pay no more taxes to a government which has refused to protect us, and thereby throw out of work the horde of policemen, soldiers, constabulary, and the like who now live on our bounty.

Then, fellow-millionaires, scorning the assistance of all these turbulent elements, let us deprive them of their jobs by sowing our own wheat, kneading our own bread, making our own clothes, and building our own houses.

Make no mistake; I call for a general strike. Let the mob manage as best they may. If they starve because we will not give them work, their blood will be upon their own heads.

Millionaires of the world, unite! You have nothing but your property to lose, and you have a fresher, fairer, finer world to gain!—Puck.

I am very glad to recommend Foley Kidney Pills to anyone suffering with rheumatism or other kidney trouble." Weinmann-Matthews Co.

How It Feels to Be Run Over.

"When I was run over," writes a correspondent, "I had not seen the car approaching. The first thing I knew was that I was on the ground, kicking upward with my legs in an effort to get from under the car. Then I felt a wheel going over my chest, which bent as it passed over. In the intervening second or two I went through several minutes' worth of feelings. I had the sensations of astonishing at being on the ground, of wanting to roll aside and away, of bracing myself—and my chest especially—stiff to resist something, whatever it might be, while a lightning flash of fear was dimly there and a subconscious query, 'What on earth next?' Yet it was hardly fear, because there was no time for such a durable sensation; it was rather a sense of being suddenly confronted with a grave reality of doubtful, obscurely terrible import."

CROUP CONQUERED

Every Mother Should Read and Remember This.

In any home where a child has a tendency to croup, a bottle of HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) should be kept constantly on hand.

A sudden attack of croup with difficult breathing and extreme distress is apt to come on at any time.

The course to be pursued is plain. Send for your doctor at once, and in the meantime drop 30 drops of HYOMEI into a bowl of boiling water, and hold the child's head over it, cover with a towel or cloth, so that only the air filled with Homei vapor is breathed.

This method of treatment has saved many a child's life, and mothers of croupy children should see to it that HYOMEI is always on hand. Full instructions for prompt relief of croup is in each package.

A 50c bottle of HYOMEI is all you need in treating croup. This is known in all drug stores as Extra Bottle Hyomei Inhalent. Duane Spalsbury and druggists everywhere sell it. Breathe HYOMEI. It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup, sore throat, bronchitis, coughs and colds, or money back.

NEWS FROM OVER THE COUNTY

DIXBORO.

Dixboro, April 10.—The following statements show the receipts and expenditures of the Dixboro charge of the Methodist Episcopal church for the second quarter of the current year:

A financial summary for the first half year shows total receipts at Dixboro, $233.78; at Free church, $109.55; total, $343.33.

Of this amount the pastor has received from Dixboro, $153.53; from Free church, $66.16; total, $219.69.

The current indebtedness of Dixboro is $55.92; of Free church, $48.72; total, $104.64.

In comparison with this time last year Dixboro has raised $29.54 more for Ministerial support than was raised last year, while Free church has raised $17.33 less. Net gain, $12.21.

In addition to the above Dixboro has raised and applied $92 toward the painting of its church while the Ladies' Aid of Free church has raised and applied $42 toward the Parsonage repair fund.

These churches do not assess their members nor rent their sittings. They therefore dependl wholly upon the freewill offerings of their members and friends.

Dixboro has 70 members and 18 probationers while the Free church has only 28 members and three probationers. Dixboro's membership includes 12 heads of the family while the Free church membership contains 11 heads of the family.

Both of these churches are within Superior township and are the only churches in the town. Cherry Hill Methodist church lies within two and a half miles of Free church to the southeast. There is no other church within five miles of Dixboro.

A quarterly conference for Dixboro charge has beeen called to meet at the parsonage Wednesday, April 18, 1911, at 2 p. m.

A Reader Cures His Constipation—Try it Free

Simple way for any family to retain the good health of all its members

The editors of "Health Hints" and "Questions and Answers" have one question that is put to them more often than any other, and which, strangely enough, they find the most difficult to answer. That is "How can I cure my constipation?"

Dr. Caldwell, an eminent specialist in diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels has looked the whole field over, has practised the specialty for forty years and is convinced that the ingredients contained in what is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the best claim to attention from constipated people.

Its success in the cure of stubborn constipation has done much to displace the use of salts, waters, strong cathartics and such things. Syrup Pepsin, by training the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and with its tonic ingredients strengthening the nerves, brings about a lasting cure. Among its strongest supporters are Mr. John Graveline of 98 Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, Mich., Mr. J. A. Vernon of Oklahoma City and thousands of others. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, or if you want to try it first a free sample bottle can be obtained by writing the doctor.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

School Term Finished.

The school, which the pastor of the German Lutheran church, Rev. Henry Lutgen, has conducted this winter in the school house east of the church edifice, has finished its term. Thirty children were enrolled. The instruction is given in German and, while the object of holding the school is altgether that the pupils may be prepared for confirmation, still it also produces the desirable result of keeping up and instructing the children in the German language. Thus at not great effort the children have the great advantage of being equipped with two languages.

SIR WALTER SCOTT'S DOGS

Famous Author Was Especially Fond of These and His Other Pets at Abbotsford.

One of my pleasant recollections is that of seeing Sir Walter Scott out on a stroll with his dogs; the scene being in the neighborhood of Abbotsford, in the summer of 1824, while as yet the gloom of misfortune had not clouded the mind of the great man. There he was limping gaily along with his pet companions amid the rural scenes which he had tolled to secure and loved so dearly.

Scott's fondness for animals has perhaps never been sufficiently acknowledged. It was with him a kind of second nature, and appears to have been implanted when as a child he was sent on a visit to the house of his grandfather, Robert Scott, at Sandyknowe, in the neighborhood of Dryburgh. Here, amid flocks of sheep and lambs, talked to and fondled by shepherds and ewe milkers, and reveling with collies, he was impressed with a degree of affectionate feeling for animals which lasted through life. At a subsequent visit to Sandyknowe, when his grandfather had passed away, and the farm operations were administered by "Uncle Thomas," he was provided with a Shetland pony to ride upon. The pony was little larger than many a Newfoundland dog. It walked freely into the house and was regularly fed from the boy's hand. He soon learned to ride the little pony well, and often alarmed "Aunt Jenny" by cantering over the rough places in the neighborhood. Such were the beginnings of Scott's intercourse with animals. Growing up, there was something extraordinary in his attachment to his dogs, his horses, his ponies and his cats; all of which were treated by him, each in its own sphere, as agreeable companions, and which were attached to him in turn.—W. Chambers.

"The Cloister and the Hearth."

The variety of life, the vigor of action, the straightforward and easy mastery displayed at every step in every stage of the fiction, would of themselves be enough to place "The Cloister and the Hearth" among the very greatest masterpieces of narrative; while its tender truthfulness of sympathy, its ardor and depth of feeling, the constant sweetness of its humor, the frequent passion of its pathos, are qualities in which no other tale of adventure so stirring and incident so inexhaustible can pretend to a moment's comparison with it unless we are foolish enough to risk a reference to the name of Scott.—Swinborne.
